New product sets from Lux Elements:

Tried-and-tested shower base with finished surface element

At the beginning of 2019 Lux Elements will present the new Tub/Tub-Line Finish product sets with point or linear drainage. They combine the manufacturer's tried-and-tested shower base elements with jointless surface elements made of solid surface material. All products have a 4-sided slope.

In "Finish", the manufacturer of hard foam substrates for bathrooms and spas has for the first time designed a product that includes a finished surface. The new sets combine functionality, safety and design.

Substrate and surface in one product set
With the flush with the floor Lux Elements shower base element, the set offers quality proven over decades and it meets all requirements for a safe substrate, such as standard-compliant sealing in accordance with DIN 18534, prefabricated slopes and drainage technology.

The matching surface element made of solid surface material provides rapid completion of the shower area by simply being glued in place. The COL-MK mounting adhesive is suitable for this. In combination with the surface, the drain cover, which is similarly made of solid surface material, gives the product a particularly classy touch.
In addition, the pore-free material is hygienic, easy to clean, durable and hard-wearing.
